

The increasing threats and risks on the Facebook accounts

In past few years, Facebook is used as one of the leading social networking platforms all over the world. The users are creating the accounts on Facebook to keep in touch with friends and relatives. The users may use the Facebook account to share status, posts, images, and videos with all the friends. You may have various kind of personal information on your Facebook account and you never want to compromise with its security. As the technology is increasing, the risk of threat and hacking is also increasing on Facebook accounts.

If you are using a Facebook account on your desktop or mobile phone, it can be hacked in the various ways. The hackers are using the following techniques for Facebook account hacking

- Phishing for Facebook hacking
- Use of social engineering
- Password grabbing techniques
- Key logging
- Hack with browser extensions and exploits
- Good old Trojan horse
- Facebook application hacking

Easy availability of Facebook hacking tools:

The hacking tools are easily available online and you can also get the professional Facebook hack service in USA if you want to get the desired information about the targeted person. The hackers are offering free and paid services to other users of Facebook to hack the accounts by using various tools. Some of the tools and mobile applications are available for free and every Facebook user can use it to hack the accounts.

One of the most common ways of Facebook hacking is by sending the links and messages having a threat in it to any user. These threats are very useful to get any kind of information the account of the targeted person on Facebook.

How to prevent the security threats on Facebook?

If you do not want to face any kind of hacking with your online Facebook account, you need to keep various things in your mind. First of all, you should never share the account related information with any third party. You should not click on the unwanted links and unknown messages having any kind of link in it. If you are creating the profile on any other website, you should avoid using Facebook for it. You should check all the permissions carefully while creating any other account by using your Facebook application or account. There are many more tips and factors you should keep in mind when you want to prevent the attacks by Facebook hack service in USA on your Facebook account. For more details visit: <http://en.face-geek.com/>